Con Long, Lan, Quy, and Phung create a picturesque landscape that enthralls visitors from near and far on every excursion to discover the West.

Long Lan Quy Phung, a group of four sacred islands, are four priceless pearls situated on the Tien River, a stunning and significant river in the Southwest. Of these, Quy and Phung islands are in Tan Thach commune, Chau Thanh district, Ben Tre province; Long and Lan islands are in My Tho City.

The largest Buddhist temple in the province of Tien Giang is Vinh Trang Pagoda, which was designated as a national historical-cultural relic in 1984. The pagoda was constructed by Mr. and Mrs. Bui Cong Dat in the beginning of the 1800s.
